MUSIC. 7

ELEMENTS OF VOCAL MUSIC.

INTRODUCTION.

SOUND is the sensation produced upon the nerve of the ear by the vibrations of the air, or by some other elastic medium, with which the ear is in contact. There are two primary distinctions in the nature of sound: that sound which results from uniform vibrations is called tone; and that which is the result of interrupted vibrations is called noise. The pitch or gravity of tone may be accurately determined, and sounds of this distinction form the subject of the present work.

The science of Music consists in the knowledge of the pitch, length, accentuation, and the different degrees in the force of tone, and the characters which are used to represent them. It is proper first to regard pitch, inasmuch as it is the characteristic ordinarily observed before any other. The next in importance is length; then accentuation; and, lastly, the different degrees of force.

OF MELODY.

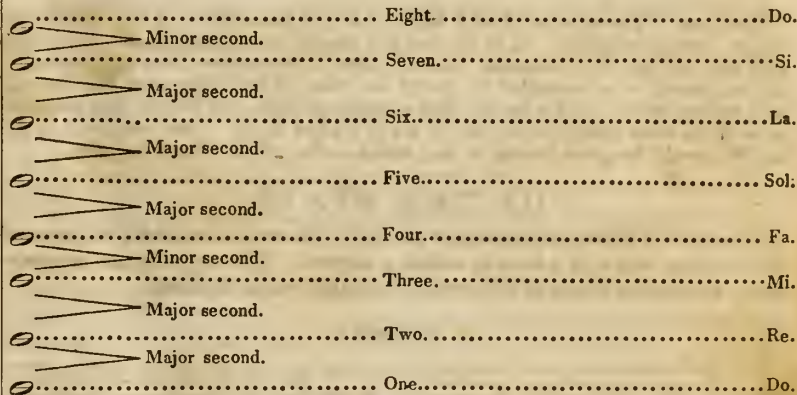

MELODY treats of the pitch of tones. The pitch of a tone is elevated or depressed in proportion to the increase or decrease of the number of vibrations in any given time. A scale is a succession of eight tones, occurring at irregular intervals from any one tone to another of twice its number of vibrations. For example, if a tone be heard, the vibrations of which number thirty per second, the last tone of the same scale would number sixty.

OF SECONDS.

The difference of pitch, or the interval, from any one tone of the scale to the next above it is called a second. The great seconds are called major, and the less, minor. Thus, a scale is composed of eight tones and of seven seconds; five of the seconds are major, and two minor.

The tones of the scale are reckoned from the lowest upward, and in addition to the numeric names, a syllable is applied to each. For the reason that the last tone of any one scale is the same as the first of the next scale above it, the same syllable that is applied to the first is applied to the eighth.

EXAMPLE.

[NOTE TO THE TEACHER. — Require the pupils to sing the scale from the above representation, until they have a correct idea of the proportionate elevation of the tones.]

QUESTIONS.

1. How many tones are there in the scale? Answer. Eight.
2. What is the general name given to the interval from any one tone of the scale to the next above it? Second.
3. How many seconds are there in the scale? Seven.

4. What are the great seconds called? Major.
5. What are the less called? Minor.
6. How many major seconds in the scale? Five.
7. How many minor? Two.
8. What is the difference of pitch or interval from one to two? A major second.
9. From two to three? A major second.
10. From three to four? A minor second.
11. From four to five, etc.? A major second, etc.
12. What syllable is applied to the first tone of the scale? Do.
13. What to the second, etc.? Re, etc.
14. What is the difference of pitch from Do to Re? A major second.
15. From Re to Mi, etc.? A major second, etc.

REMARK. The teacher should insist on a just enunciation of the vowels employed in these syllables. O, in Do and Sol, should have its long sound, as in bold, cold, etc., and not the compound element which is sometimes given; for example, the long sound of o, succeeded by that of oo; thus, O-oo. The same may be said with regard to the vowel e, in Re: it is a simple element, and has the long sound of a, as in the word taper, and not that of a-e as is often heard. The sound of i, in Mi and Si, should be given like ee, in see; and a in Fa and La, like a in father.

OF THE STAFF.

The pitch of tones is represented on the staff. The staff consists of five lines and four spaces, each of which is called a degree. The degrees are enumerated, as are the tones of the scale, from the lowest upward.

EXAMPLE.

QUESTIONS.

1. How many lines does the staff contain? Ans. Five.
2. How many spaces? Four.
3. What is the general name given to each line and space? Degree.
4. How many degrees does the staff contain? Nine.
5. In what order are they reckoned? From the lowest upwards.

The staff may be extended, by adding short lines above or below, as may be required, which are reckoned from the staff, thus,

The degrees of the staff are named after the first seven letters of the alphabet; and their arrangement is determined by a sign, technically called a clef, taking its name from the letter for which it stands, thus,

QUESTIONS.

1. How is the staff extended? Answer. By adding short lines above or below.
2. How are the lines reckoned? From the staff.
3. Are they also called by the same general name? They are.
4. What is that general name? Degree.
5. After what characters are the degrees of the staff named? The first seven letters of the alphabet.
6. How is the arrangement of the letters determined? By a clef.
7. From what does the clef derive its name? The letter for which it stands.
8. What is the name of the clef which stands for the letter G? The G clef.
9. Of that which stands for the letter F? The F clef.
10. On which degree of the staff does the G clef represent the letter G? On the second line.
11. On which degree of the staff does the F clef represent the letter F? On the fourth line.

It will be observed that the letters are reckoned upwards in alphabetic order, and downward by the inversion of that order.

The G that is indicated by the G clef, is called the clef G, to distinguish it from any other G; and that letter indicated by the F clef, is called clef F.

By common consent, the first tone of the scale is represented on the first C below clef G, or the first below clef F. The seconds, as to major or minor, from any one letter to the next above, are prescribed by the order in which they occur in the scale beginning with C.

The difference of pitch from one to two of the scales is a major second; one being represented on C, and two on D, the next letter above, it must therefore be a major second from C to D. From two to three is a major second; from D to E a major second; from three to four minor; from E to F, minor; from four to five, major; from F to G, major; from five to six, major; from G to A, major; from six to seven, major; from A to B, major; from seven to eight, minor; from B to C, minor.

QUESTIONS.

1. If the G clef designate the letters, on which degree is the first note of the scale written?
2. On which degree is the second?
3. The third?
4. The fourth? the fifth? &c.
5. If the F clef designate the letters, on which degree of the staff is the first note written?
6. On which degree is the second? etc.
7. On what letter is the first note of the scale written?
8. On what letter is the second? the third? etc.
9. What is the difference of pitch from C to D? from D to E? from E to F? from F to G? from G to A? from A to B? from B to C?

Any succession of tones after the above order of seconds forms what is called the Major scale; and when, as in the foregoing example, the first note of it is written on C, it is said to be in the key of C.

The same scale may be represented higher or lower in the same key, if the first note of it be written on C, the seconds being the same always between the corresponding letters of the staff, thus,

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1
 Do. Re. Mi. Fa. Sol. La. Si. Do. Do. Si. La. Sol. Fa. Mi. Re. Do.
 C D E F G A B C C B A G F E D C

This may be called the upper representation of the same scale; and the lower thus : —

8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8
 Do. Si. La. Sol. Fa. Mi. Re. Do. Do. Re. Mi. Fa. Sol. La. Si. Do.
 C B A G F E D C C D E F G A B C

OF TIME.

TIME is the duration of tones; it includes, also, the period of rest between their recurrence. From the beginning to the end of a piece of music, either tone or silence must be represented; and to the consideration of the characters used in such representation, the following remarks are intended particularly to apply.

OF NOTES AND RESTS.

The characters that are used to represent tones are called NOTES, and they indicate the length or duration of that tone. Those representing silence are called RESTS. The note that represents the longest tone is a whole note, and the rest that represents the longest silence is a whole rest; the others are denominated according to the fractional value which they bear to the whole; thus : —

NOTES.		RESTS.
A whole note,		A whole rest,
A half		A half
A quarter		A quarter
An eighth		An eighth
A sixteenth		A sixteenth
A thirty-second		A thirty-second

It may be that the following representation will show more clearly the relative length of tones.

A whole note is equal to two halves, two halves to four quarters, four quarters to eight eighths, eight eighths to sixteen sixteenths, 16 sixteenths to thirty-two thirty-seconds ;

OF DOTTED NOTES AND RESTS.

The value of notes and that of rests may be augmented by one half of their original length, by placing a dot (•) after them; thus,

A dotted whole note..... is equal to a whole and a half,.....

“ half “ “ “ half and a quarter,.....

“ quarter “ “ “ quarter and an eighth,.....

“ eighth “ “ “ an eighth and a sixteenth, ..

“ sixteenth “ “ “ sixteenth and a thirty-second,

A dotted whole rest..... is equal to a whole and a half,.....

“ half “ “ “ a half and a quarter,.....

“ quarter “ “ “ quarter and an eighth,.....

“ eighth “ “ “ an eighth and a sixteenth, ..

“ sixteenth “ “ “ a sixteenth and thirty-second,

OF DOUBLE DOTTED NOTES.

Two dots are sometimes annexed to a note or a rest, the second of which adds one half to the value of the first, thus : —

A double dotted whole note,  is equal to “ “ half “  “ “

“ “ quarter “  “ “

“ “ eighth “  “ “

The perpendicular line attached to notes may extend up or down, without changing their denomination, thus : —

 Halves,  Quarters,  or  Eighths, or  Sixteenths,  or  Thirty-seconds.

The relative length of tones, or silence, as indicated by notes or rests is measured by motions of the hand, called beating time, which will be explained in connection with the next subject.

OF RHYTHM.

Music is arranged into rhythmical divisions called measures. Each measure is distinguished by, and also derives its name from, the number of parts into which it is divided. A measure having two parts, is called double; that having three, triple; that having four, quadruple; and that having six, sextuple. One measure is divided from another by a perpendicular line, called a bar.

ILLUSTRATION.

OF DOUBLE MEASURE.

The figure two, () designates or stands for double measure, which may be illustrated by a word of two syllables, accented on the first.

EXAMPLE.

2 Glo — ry | Good — ly | Man — ly | The numerals descriptive of the parts of the measure.
 One — two | One — two | One — two | Descriptive of the accentuation.
 Loud — soft | Loud — soft | Loud — soft | Descriptive of the beats or motions of the hand.
 Down — up | Down — up | Down — up |

REMARK. This subject cannot advantageously be extended without the aid practically of beating time, which is making certain motions of the hand corresponding to the different parts of a measure, whereby the length of tones may be determined with greater accuracy. It may be well to observe here, that great care should be exercised in teaching the pupils to acquire the habit of beating time with the head alone, while the forearm remains perfectly motionless. The hand should not linger from point to point, but change its position instantly, at equal intervals.

QUESTIONS.

1. If a measure have two parts, what is it called ?
2. What designates double measure ?
3. To what does the figure two correspond ?
4. How many measures are represented in the example ?
5. What word represents the first measure ?
6. What word represents the second measure ?
7. Which is the accented part of double measure ?
8. What is used to divide one measure from another ?
9. How many beats or motions of the hand are required in double measure ?

OF TRIPLE MEASURE.

Triple measure is designated by the figure three, ($\frac{3}{4}$) and may be illustrated by a word of three syllables, accented on the first.

EXAMPLE.

3 Glo — ri — ous
One — two — three
Loud — soft — softer
Down — left — up

Jus — ti — fy
One — two — three
Loud — soft — softer
Down — left — up

If a measure have two unaccented parts, the second should be the softer.

QUESTIONS.

1. How many measures are represented in the example?
2. What word represents the first measure?
3. What word the second?
4. How many parts has triple measure?
5. What figure designates triple measure?
6. To what does the figure three correspond?
7. How many beats are required in triple measure?
8. Which is the accented part?

OF QUADRUPLE MEASURE.

Quadruple measure has four parts, and is designated by the figure four ($\frac{4}{4}$). It may be illustrated by a word of four syllables, accented on the first and third.

EXAMPLE.

4 Con — gre — gat — ed
One — two — three — four
Loud — soft — less loud — softer
Down — left — right — up

Man — i — fest — ed
One — two — three — four
Loud — soft — less loud — softer
Down — left — right — up

If a measure have two accents, the first must be the stronger.

QUESTIONS.

1. How many measures are represented in the example?
2. What word represents the first?
3. What the second?
4. How many parts has quadruple measure?
5. What figure designates it?
6. To what does the figure four correspond?
7. Which are the accented parts of the measure?
8. How many beats are required in quadruple measure?

OF SEXTUPLE MEASURE.

Sextuple measure is measure of six parts, and is designated by the figure six, ($\frac{6}{8}$). It may be illustrated by a word of six syllables, accented on the first and fourth.

6 Spir — it — u — al — i — ty | In — stru — men — tal — i — ty
Loud — soft — softer — less loud — softer — softest | Loud — soft — softer — less loud — softer — softest
One — two — three — four — five — six | One — two — three — four — five — six
Down — down — left — right — up — up | Down — down — left — right — up — up

QUESTIONS.

1. How many measures are represented in this example?
2. What word represents the first?
3. The second?
4. How many parts has sextuple measure?
5. What figure designates it?
6. To what does the figure six correspond?
7. Which are the accented parts of the measure?
8. How many beats are required?

GENERAL QUESTIONS.

1. How many different kinds of measure are there?
2. What distinguishes one kind from another?
3. How is double measure accented?
4. Triple measure?
5. Quadruple measure?
6. Sextuple measure?

OF DOUBLE MEASURE AND NOTES.

[It is here necessary to introduce notes to represent tones in the different parts of the measure.]

Double measure may be written with two halves (one on each part of the measure,) or with two quarters, one quarter representing one part, thus: —

Double measure is designated by the figure two, irrespective of the particular note representing each part of the measure. It is usual, however, to place the figure corresponding to such note under that designating the measure, thus: —

If double measure be written with two halves ($\frac{2}{2}$ P P), it is called two-two measure; and if with two quarters ($\frac{2}{4}$ P P), two-four measure, simply to distinguish one representation from the other.

It must be understood, that the length of notes is relative, and not absolute, and that the difference of notes causes no difference in the performance of double measure; and the same may be said of the other kinds of measure.

OF TRIPLE MEASURE.

The custom is to write triple measure with either three halves, three quarters, or three eighths, thus: —

REMARK. It may be advisable for the teacher to require the pupils to sing the fractional names of the notes, in connection with the lesson written on the blackboard.

OF QUADRUPLE MEASURE.

Quadruple measure is usually written with halves or with quarters, thus: —

REMARK. The teacher is respectfully requested to write the lesson, as here represented, on the blackboard, and to require the pupil to sing them in slow and deliberate time, giving to each note the vocalicity of La, its fractional name, the part of the measure it represents, and the corresponding beat.

OF SEXTUPLE MEASURE.

Sextuple measure is written with six quarters or with six eighths, thus:

QUESTIONS.

1. When double measure is written with two halves, what is it called?
2. When with two quarters?
3. When triple measure is written with three halves, what is it called?
4. When with three quarters?

The same principle will apply to the second class. See preceding exercises.

OF SINGLE, DOUBLE, TRIPLE, AND QUADRUPLE FORMS OF MEASURES.

Since two or more tones may be represented on any one part of a measure, it is deemed convenient to give such measure or part of measure a distinctive name, indicative of the number of tones represented; thus, if one note represent each part, the measure is said to be in its single form; if two notes of equal length, the double form; if three, the triple form; and if four, the quadruple form.

OF TRIPLETS.

The value of three notes is reduced to that of two, of the same kind, by a figure (3) placed over or under them; such notes are called a triplet.

PRINCIPAL SOUNDS OF THE SCALE.

A melody may begin or end upon either of the principal tones of the scale, one, three, five, and eight, and into one of these the other tones must resolve; that is, at a close, two must be followed by one, four by three, six by five, and seven by eight. Thus it is said that two resolve into one, four into three, etc.

THE SCALE IN THE KEY OF C.

The scale is said to be in the key of the letter upon which the note is written representing its first line. The following is a representation of the same scale, in the key of the same letter, commencing at four different points of pitch, thus : —

C	D	E	F	G	A	B	C
Do	Re	Mi	Fa	Sol	La	Si	Do
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8

8	7	6	5	4	3	2	1
Do	Si	La	Sol	Fa	Mi	Re	Do
C	B	A	G	F	E	D	C

The lowest representation of this scale may be described as commencing upon the second C below clef F; the next succeeding it, upon the first C below clef F; the next, upon the first C above clef F, or the first C below clef G; and the next, as commencing upon the first C above clef G.

ELEMENTS OF VOCAL MUSIC.

OF THE CHROMATIC SCALE.

A minor second is an indivisible difference of pitch; but a major second admits of an intermediate tone, which is indicated by a sharp (#), a sign of elevation, or a flat (b), a sign of depression. A sharp elevates, and a flat depresses the pitch of a note before which it is written.

 NUMERALS. 1, #1, 2, #2, 3, 4, #4, 5, #5, 6, #6, 7, 8, 7, b7, 6, b6, 5, b5, 4, 3, b3, 2, b2, 1.

The word chromatic, implies a difference of pitch between two notes written on the same degree of the staff.

In the chromatic scale ascending or descending there are seven seconds and five chromatic changes.

When the pitch of the second of two notes written on the same degree of the staff is above that of the first, the change is called a chromatic elevation, and when below, a chromatic depression.

The tones between the major seconds of the scale derive their name from the letters on which they are represented, thus : C, C#, D, D#, E, E♭, D, D♭, &c.; and also from the numerals on the degrees which they are indicated, viz.: 1, #1, 2, #2, 3, ♭3, 2, ♭2, &c.

The notes before which the sharps are written resolve into the next letter, a minor second above; and those before which the flats are written, into the next letter, a minor second below.

QUESTIONS.

1. How many tones are there in the chromatic scale ?
2. How many seconds are there ?
3. How many chromatic changes ?
4. What is the difference of pitch from C to C# ?
5. From C# to D ? &c.
6. How much above C is D♭ ?
7. How much below C is B, is B♭ ? &c.
8. If the intermediate tone between C and D, derive its name from C, what is it called ?
9. If it derives its name from D, what is it called ?
10. Into which letter does C# resolve ? &c.
11. Into which letter does D♭ resolve ? &c.

It is a second from any one note to another written on an adjoining degree of the staff. There are three kinds of seconds, viz.: minor, major, and sharp; the minor and major seconds have been explained. A sharp second is one made greater than major by elevating the pitch of the higher, or depressing the pitch of the lower note forming the second, thus : —

EXERCISE 1.

A sharp or flat extends its influence through the measure in which it appears, except when indicated otherwise by a natural, (♮), which restores a note to its original pitch.

EXERCISE 1.

EXERCISE 2.

EXERCISE 3.

OF THE MINOR SCALE.

There is yet another scale which is distinguished by its order of seconds, called the minor scale. It consists of seven seconds, three of which are major, three minor, and one sharp. The first note of this scale here is written on A, it is therefore in the key of A.

La	Si	Do	Re	Mi	Fa	Si	La	Si	Fa	Mi	Re	Do	Si	La
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	7	6	5	4	3	2	1

The minor scale in the key of A is called the relative of the major scale in the key of C, because the syllables are used in common in both scales when in these keys.

REMARK. The teacher should establish the fact in the minds of his pupils, that there are but three scales, viz.: the major, minor, and chromatic, although they may be written in the keys of different letters.

QUESTIONS.

1. How many scales are there? Answer. Three.
2. What are they called? Major, minor, and chromatic scales.
3. How many tones are there in the major scale? Eight.
4. How many seconds? Seven.
5. How many major seconds? Five.
6. How many minor? Two.
7. How many tones are there in the minor scale? Eight.
8. How many seconds? Seven.
9. How many major seconds? Three.
10. How many minor? Three.
11. How many sharp seconds? One.
12. How many tones are there in the chromatic scale? Thirteen.
13. How many seconds are there? Seven.
14. How many chromatic changes? Five.
15. What distinguishes the major scale from the minor? The order in which the seconds occur.
16. Why is the scale in the key of A said to be the relative of the major in the key of C? Because the syllables are used in common in both scales in these keys.

EXERCISE 1.

EXERCISE 2.

OF PROGRESSION.

There are three progressions in which notes may follow each other, viz., diatonic, chromatic, and by skips. The diatonic progression is that succession of notes written on adjoining degrees of the staff, either through the entire scale or otherwise, thus:—

EXAMPLE 1.

The major and minor scales are both diatonic; so is also a major or minor second. The word diatonic is more commonly used in contradistinction to the word chromatic. A chromatic progression is any succession of notes written on the same degree of the staff, effected through the use of flats, sharps, or naturals; thus:—

EXAMPLE 2.

CHROMATIC ELEVATION. CHROMATIC DEPRESSION. CHROMATIC DEPRESSION. CHROMATIC ELEVATION.

A progression by skips is any succession of notes following each other by skipping over one or more degrees of the staff, thus:—

EXAMPLE 3.

EXERCISE 4.

TRANSPOSITION OF THE SCALE.

When the scale is written in the key of any other letter but C, it is said to be transposed; and when transposed, the just order of seconds must be effected through the use of sharps or flats. Such sharps or flats constitute the signature.

The signature, one sharp on F, is equal to a sharp (#), before every note that may occur on F. The syllable Do is always applied to the first note of the scale,* and Re to the second, etc.

* In speaking of the scale without any qualification, the major is always understood to be referred to, but if either of the other scales, the minor or chromatic, be spoken of, it must be expressed.

OF DYNAMICS.

The following words, when written over a note or notes, indicate the degree of force to be given to the tone represented by such note or notes.

- Piano*, or p. its abbreviation, implies a soft tone.
- Pianissimo*, or pp. “ “ a very soft tone.
- Mezzo*, or m. “ “ an ordinarily loud tone.
- Mezzo Piano*, or mp. “ “ rather a soft tone.
- Mezzo Forte*, or mf. “ “ rather a loud tone.
- Forte*, or f. “ “ a loud tone.
- Fortissimo*, or ff. “ “ a very loud tone.

EXERCISE 1.

A gradual increase in the force of a tone is indicated by the word crescendo, or the sign, thus, < ; and a gradual decrease, by the word diminuendo, or the sign, > . A gradual increase followed by a gradual decrease is represented by a swell thus, $\text{<}>$. The swell may commence with any degree of force, except that which is indicated by the word fortissimo, or ff; but if not otherwise indicated, the ordinary degree of force is understood, thus, $m \text{<}> m$.

f

EXERCISE 2.

EXERCISE 3.

EXERCISE 4.

ff

The word Forzando, its abbreviation, sz., or the sign $>$, implies that the tone represented by the note over which it is written should be given in a forcible manner.

EXERCISE 5.

OF THE HOLD.

A hold, thus, (\frown), when written over a note, indicates a prolongation of the tone, and when over a rest, a prolongation of silence.

The beating of time must be suspended on the final part of the note or rest over which the hold is written, thus :

OF THE DOUBLE BAR AND CLOSE.

A double bar is used to divide the music corresponding to different lines of poetry. A close denotes the end of a piece of music.

OF STACCATO.

The word staccato placed over a note or a succession of notes, or the sign (\uparrow), implies that it, or they, should be performed in a detached manner.

OF TWO PARTS.

Two melodies, to be performed at one and the same time, may be written upon one staff. The higher part is called the treble, and the lower part the alto.

EXAMPLE 1.

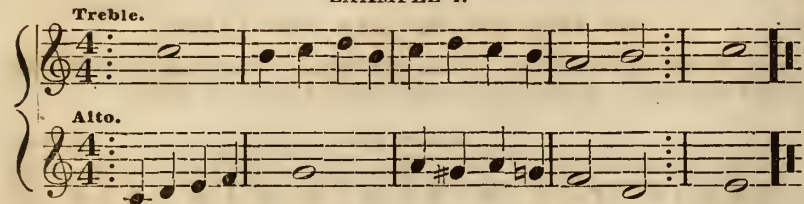

OF A BRACE.

A brace () is used to tie together the staves on which are written different melodies, designed to be performed at one and the same time.

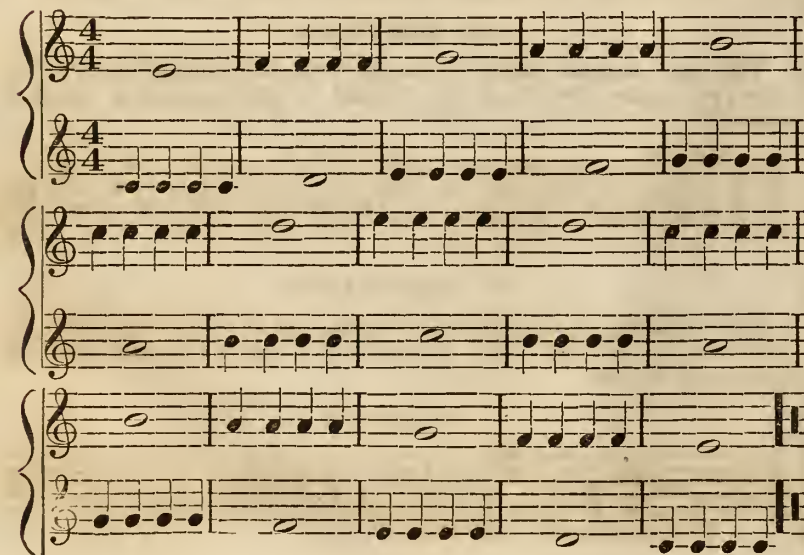

EXAMPLE 1.

EXAMPLE 4.

OF ENHARMONICS.

The word enharmonic implies the representation of the same tone on a different degree of the staff, thus : —

Enharmonic change.

Di, Re, Ri, Me, Se, Fi, Le, Si.

THE CHROMATIC SCALE INTERRUPTED BY ENHARMONIC CHANGES.

OF SYNCOPATION.

A syncopated note is one that embraces two parts of a measure, the first of which is unaccented, and the second accented, thus : —

EXAMPLE 1.

The syncopated note changes the accent from the third to the second measure.

The same effect may be produced by writing a slur over two notes of the same pitch, thus : —

EXAMPLE 2.

Do, Re.... Do.... Mi... Do.... Fa.... Do..... Sol... Do...
 La.... Do..... Si..... Do.... Do..... Si, Do.

In the above exercise the accent is inverted to the first of the two notes over which the slur is written. Two notes of the same pitch, with a slur over or under them, represent but one tone.

OF CLASSES OF VOICES.

Every well organized ear is manifestly gratified in hearing a single part or melody accompanied by other parts or melodies, so adjusted as to render them harmonious with each other. For this gratification there are naturally provided four classes of voices, two of which are found in females and two in males. The higher class of voice in females is called Treble, the lower class Alto; in males, the higher class is called Tenor, and the lower class Bass. The natural compass or limit of each class of voice embraces about twelve degrees of the staff, which is equal to an eighth and a fifth.

EXAMPLE.

• • • Compass of the Treble voice • • •
 • • • Compass of the Tenor voice • • •

OF FOUR PARTS.

The tenor is written on a staff headed by the G clef, and the part is regarded as being an eighth lower than if designed to be sung by a treble or alto voice.

STONEFIELD. L. M.

Moderato.

1 O all ye people shout and sing Ho-san-nas to your heavenly king; Where'er the sun's bright glories shine, Ye nations, praise his name divine.

2 High on his ev - er-last-ing throne, He reigns almighty and a - lone; Yet we on earth with an-gels share His kind regard, his ten - der care.

3 Re - joice, ye servants of the Lord, Spread wide Jehovah's name abroad; Oh praise our God, his power a-dore, From age to age, from shore to shore.

Andante Sostenuto.

See the good shepherd gently leads, His wandering flocks to verdant meads ; Where winding rivers, soft and slow, A - mid the flowery landscape flow.

FISK. L. M.

ARRANGED FROM THE GERMAN.

Maestoso.

1. The day of Christ, the day of God, We humbly hope with joy to see, Washed in the sanc-ti-fy-ing blood Of an ex-pir-ing De-i-ty:

2. Who did for us his life re-sig-n: There is no oth-er God but one: For all the plen-i-tude di-vine Re-sides in the e-ter-nal Son.

3. Spotless, sincere, without of-fence, O may we to his day re-main! Who trust the blood of Christ to cleanse Our souls from every sin-ful stain.

Andante.

1. As - sem - bled at thy great command, Be - fore thy face, dread King, we stand; The voice that marshalled every star, Has called thy people from a - far.

2. We meet through distant lands to spread The truth for which the mar - tyrs bled; A - long the line— to ei - ther pole— The thunder of thy praise to roll.

3. First bow our hearts be - neath thy sway; Then give thy grow - ing em - pire way, O'er wastes of sin—o'er fields of blood—Till all mankind shall be subdued.

4. Our prayers assist—ac - cept our praise—Our hopes revive—our cour - age raise—Our counsels aid—and oh! impart, The sin - gle eye—the faith - ful heart.

How surely 'stablished is thy throne!
Which shall no change or period see;
For thou, O Lord, and thou alone,
Art God from all eternity.

The floods, O Lord, lift up their voice,
And toss the troubled waves on high;
But God above can still the noise,
And make the angry sea comply.

Thy promise, Lord, is ever sure,
And they that in thy house would dwell,
That happy station to secure,
Must still in holiness excel.

Andante.

1. Thus far the Lord has led me on; Thus far his power prolongs my days; And every evening shall make known, Some fresh memorial of his grace.

2. Much of my time has run to waste, And I, perhaps, am near my home; But he forgives my fol-lies past, He gives me strength for days to come.

3. I lay my body down to sleep; Peace is the pillow of my head; While well-appointed an-gels keep Their watchful stations round my bed.

4. Thus, when the night of death shall come, My flesh shall rest beneath the ground, And wait thy voice to break my tomb, With sweet salvation in the sound.

1. Raise your tri-umph-ant songs, To an im-mor-tal tune, Let the wide earth re-sound the deeds, Ce-les-tial grace has done.

3. His hand no thun-der bears, No ter-ror clothes his brow; No bolts to drive our guil-ty souls To fierc-er Flames be-low.

5. Now, sin-ners, dry your tears, Let hope-less sor-row cease; Bow to the scep-tre of his love, And take the of-fered peace.

2. Sing how E-ter-nal Love Its chief Be-lov-ed chose; And bade him raise our ru-ined race, From their a-byss of woes.

4. 'Twas mer-cy filled the throne, And wrath stood si-lent by, When Christ was sent with par-dons down, To Reb-els doomed to die.

6. Lord, we o-bey thy call; We lay an hum-blo claim To the sal-va-tion thou hast bought; And love and praise thy name.

I. B. WOODBURY.

Andante.

1. Hark! what celestial sounds, What music fills the air! Soft warbling to the morn, It strikes the ravish'd ear: Now all is still; now wild it floats In tuneful notes, loud, sweet, and shrill.

2. Th'angelic hosts descend, With harmony divine: See how from heaven they bend, And in full chorus join: Fear not, say they, great joy we bring: Jesus, your King, is born to day.

3. He comes, your souls to save From death's eternal gloom; To realms of bliss and light He lifts you from the tomb: Your voices raise, with sons of light; Your songs unite of endless praise

QUARTETTE & CHORUS. "There's nothing true but heaven."

Larghetto.

1. This world is all a fleeting show, For man's illusion given, The smiles of joy, the tears of woe, Deceitful shine, deceitful flow; There's nothing true but heav'n, There's nothing, & c.

2. And false the light on glory's plume, As fading lues of even, And love, and hope, and beauty's bloom, Are blossoms gathered for the tomb, There's nothing bright but heaven, There's, & c.

3. Poor wanderers of a stormy day, From wave to wave we're driven, And fancy's flash, and reason's ray, Serve but to light the troubled way, There's nothing calm but heaven, There's nothing, & c

Andante Religioso.

1. Shield us, Fa-ther! day de-clines, Evening's star se-re-ne-ly shines; Cool-er breez-es on the wing,
 2. Soft-ly flow the slug-gish rills, While up-on the thou-sand hills, Falls the pale and mel-low light,
 3. Ere these wea-ried frames re-pose, Or in sleep our eye-lids close, Hear our grate-ful eve-ning hymn,

Trib-utes of re-fresh-ment bring; All the for-est birds are still, Save the plain-tive whip-poor-will.
 Of the ris-ing queen of night; Si-lence broods on earth, in air,— 'Tis the eve-ning hour of prayer.
 Thou whose eye is nev-er dim, Let it min-gle with the songs Ut-tered by ce-les-tial throngs.

Detailed description: This is a page of a musical score, page 291. It features a vocal line at the top with lyrics: "The marv' - - - lous work, behold, a-maz'd, the glo - rious hier-ar - chy of heaven,". Below the vocal line are four empty staves, each with the word "and" at the end, likely indicating where other voices or instruments enter. At the bottom of the page is a piano accompaniment consisting of two staves. The piano part includes dynamic markings: f (forte), p (piano), and f (forte) again. The score is written in a common time signature and includes various musical notations such as notes, rests, and accidentals.

Glory be to the Father and to the Son, And to the Ho - ly Ghost.

The first system of the musical score consists of three staves. The top staff is a vocal line in 4/4 time, with lyrics: "Glory be to the Father and to the Son, And to the Ho - ly Ghost." The middle and bottom staves are piano accompaniment, with the middle staff in treble clef and the bottom staff in bass clef. The music features a simple harmonic structure with a key signature of one sharp (F#).

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ev - er shall be, World without end, A - men, A - men.

The second system of the musical score also consists of three staves. The top staff is a vocal line in 4/4 time, with lyrics: "As it was in the beginning, is now, and ev - er shall be, World without end, A - men, A - men." The middle and bottom staves are piano accompaniment, with the middle staff in treble clef and the bottom staff in bass clef. The music continues the harmonic structure from the first system.

Andante Religioso.

The first system of musical notation consists of two staves, a treble clef on top and a bass clef on the bottom. The key signature is one sharp (F#) and the time signature is 3/4. The music is written in a simple, hymn-like style with a steady rhythm.

Our Fa-ther, who art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name: Thy kingdom come: Thy will be done on earth, as it is in heaven: Give us this

The second system of musical notation continues the piece with two staves. It maintains the same key signature and time signature as the first system. The melody and accompaniment are clearly defined.
