BY LOWELL MASON.

NEW YORK:
PUBLISHED BY MASON BROTHERS, 108 & 110 DUANE STREET.

Entered, according to Act of Congress, in the ycar Eighteen Hundred and Fifty,
By MELVIN LORD,
In the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the U'uited Sitates for the District of Massachusetts.

In issuing a new edition of a music-book which has already had the very extraordinary eale of 400,000 copies, the publishers believe there can be no impropriety in styling it the most uscful collection of Church Music ever published. Of the multitude of music-books issued, a large number never reach a salc of 1,000 copies, while a very small number, only, ever exceed 10,000 sopies, in sale. But two or three other similar collections of Church Music, have ever reached a sale of 100,000 copies, and not one has exceeded 200,000 . When, therefore, in connection with these facts, it is considered that so large a number of Carmina Sacre have been sold; when it is remembered that the sale has extended through so many years, and has continucd, while a succession of new books have made claim for public favor, it will be seen that this work has the most emphatic approval possible.

Carmiua Sacra was first published in 1841. No extraordinary means being used to bring it to notice, its sale was at first moderate. In use, it gave such satisfaction as no other book had given, and thus it rose from its own intrinsic merits. It was found, moreover, that the music it contained did not wear out with a few times singing. It not only pleased the taste, but won its way to the affections of singers and congregations. Years passed, each bringing its new books of Church Music, which, after a brief and limited circulation, passed away. Still, "Carmina" held on its way, until, in 1850, the extraordinary evidence of the merits of the work, evinced by its large sale, induced its proprietors to undertake a revision. Such of its contents as had proved least valuable were omitted, and their place supplied by pieces which had proved most popular in the author's other works. Thus improved, it was called the New Carmina Sacea, and its sale received a fresh impulse.

Another evidence of the merits of this book is found in the fact that for many years scarcely a book of Church Music has been published without application being made to the proprietors for permission to use more or less of the tunes from Carmina Sacra. Moreover, the most popular books published within a few jears have been those in which the right was secured to use some tunes from this work.

The amount of good which Carmina Sacra has accomplished in the Church Music of America, can not easily be estimated. In this book were first given to the public such tunes as Hebron, Boylston, Olmutz, Hamburg, Fountain, Badea, and others which are heard in almost every church in the land, and in the use of which the people are enabled to unite in the singing. It is not too much to say that "Carmina Sacra" has done more for Congregational Singing than any other instrumentality. The stranger from one extreme of the Union as, in his travels, he worships with a congregation at the other extreme, is enabled to unite with them in singing those tunes, from this book, which he had learned to love at home. The practically useful character of the oontents of this book, and its consequent wide circulation, have thus been instrumeutal in producing the most important results.

It is fit that no pains should be spared to bring such a work to the highest state of perfection. In pursuit of this object, some further improvements have been made in the present cdition. A number of tunes from recent works, which have been well tried and approved, are inserted. New Elements of Musical Notation, prepared by the editor, are also inserted, in order to adapt it more thoroughly to usefulness as a text-book for Singing-Schools.

The New Carmina Sacra, as it now stands, therefore, has been thoroughly tried and approved. It it is not like a work first published, which can not hope to avoid including much chaff with the wheat. The whole has been well winnowed, and the place of the cbaff, which was blown away is supplied by pure grain.

\section*{GUIDE•TO MUSICAL NOTATION.}

\section*{CHAPTER I.}

GENERAL DIVISION-PROPERTIES OF TONES.
§ 1. Musical sounds, or tones, have three essential properties, Lengtu, Pitch, and Power. Hence, elementary musical instruction is naturally divided into three departments:
1. Rhythmics, treating of the length of tones.
2. Melodics, treating of the pitch of tones.
3. Dynamics, treating of the power of tones.

\section*{CHAPTER II.}

\section*{RHYTHMICS-MEASURES, COUNTING AND BEATING TIME, AND ACCENT.}
§ 2. The length of tones is measured by a division of time into equal portions, called Measures, and Parts of Measures.
§ 3. A measure having two parts is called Double Measure.
\begin{tabular}{lllll}
" & " & three & " & " \\
" & " & four & " & " \\
" & siple Measure. \\
& six & " & " & Sudiuple Measure
\end{tabular}
§ 4. Measures, and parts of measures, are indicated or manifested-1st, to the ear, by counting; 2d, to the eye, by motions of the hands, called Beats, or Beating Time.
§ 5. Double Measure is designated by the figure 2. It has two beats, downward and upward. Accented on the first part of the measure.
§6. Triple Measure is designated by the figure 3. It has three beats, downward, inward or hither, and upward. Accented on the first part of the measure.
§ 7. Quadruple Measure is designated by the figure 4. It has four beats, downward, inward or hither, outward or thither, and upward. Accented on the first and third parts of the measure.
§ 8. Scxtuple Measure is-designated by the figure 6. It has six beats, downward, downward, inward, outward, upward, upward. Accented on the first and fourth parts of the measure.
§ 9. One quadruple measure is equivalent to two double measures; and one sextuple measure is equivalent to two triple measures.

\section*{CHAPTER III. \\ NOTES AND RESTS.}
10. The comparative length of tones is represented by the form of certain characters, called Notes.
§ 11. There are five kinds of notes in common use; the length represented by them is indicated by their names, as follows: Whole (or whole note), Half, Quarter, Elghth, and Sixteenth.

Note. These notes are also often called by the following names-Semibreve, Minim, Crotchet, Quaver, and Semiquaver.
§ 12. In addition to the above, Thirty-seconds and Sixty-fourths are sometimes used.
§ 13. A dot (.) adds one-half to the length represented by a note.
§ 14. Each note has its corresponding Rest, indicating silence.

Note.-The teacher is advised first to introduce the quarter note as a standard, or representative of each part of a measure : he may then proceed to obtain the half and the whole, by the prolongation of the each part of a measure ; he may then proceed to obtain the half and the whole, by the prolongation of the tone, or by the union of the parts of the measure. and afterwards to obtain also the eighth and the sixteenth by the more difficult process of dividing the parts of measures, by producing two or more tones to each.
§15. A part of a measure may be so divided, as to be occupied by three nes, and be represented by three notes. Such divisions are ealled Triplets, nd are usually indieated by the figure 3 , over or under the notes.
Note.- Rhythmic exercises, designed to illustrate the subject of this chapter, should be introduced as thev are needed. The following niay be regarded as examples.

Nore-A most valuable classification of measure into primitive and derived forms. in the use of which the pupil may be made practically acquainted with all the relations of the length of tones, may be found in varinus elementary trearises is omitted here, but it is recommended to teachers to make themselves familiar with it... It was nriginally published by Kübler of Stuttgart, Wurtemberg.

\section*{CHAPTER IV.}

VARIETIES OF MEASURE.
§ 16. Different notes may be used to represent the parts of measures in each kind of measure; and these different usages of notes are ealled Varieties of Measure.
§ 17. As figures are used to designate the kinds of measure, so also figures are used to designate varieties of measure. The figures being written as in the representation of fractions, the kind of measure is designated by the numerator; and the variety of measure is designated by the denominator.
Note.-Varleties of measure merely furnish different signs for the same thing. To the ear they are the same, to the eye only do they differ; the movement or degree of quickness depending not in the least on the kind of notes, which represcnt no positive, but only a relative length.

EXAMPLES OF SOME OF THE MOST COMMON VARIETIES OF MEASURE.

CHAPTER V.

\section*{MELODICS-THE SCALE, ITS NAMES AND SIGNS.}

Note.-Before any explanation of the scale is attempted, or definitions or signs are given, let the scale itself, or a part of it, be presented, by being sung slowly and distinctly by the teacher, beginning with the pitch C, to the syllable la. Let it be repeated until the class have obtained a clear idea of it, atter which, which, with everything belonging to taste, should be cultivated from the beginning. When the scale has been thus taught, or when the pupils have become so familiar with it as to have some correct appreciation of it as a connected series of tones, and can also sing it with tolerable accuracy, names, definitions and signs may follow.
§ 18. The Scale. Musieal sounds or tones, when considered with respect to the relation of pitch existing between them, are arranged in a certain series ealled the Scale; thus the seale is a succession of eight tones, in a certain order of relative piteh.
§ 19. Names of the Tones of the Scale. The tones of the scale are named from the names of numbers, beginning with the lowest, thus :

ONE, TWO, THREE, FOUR, FIVE, SIX, SEVEN, EIGHT.
§ 20. The Staff. The relative pitch of tones is represented by a character ealled the Staff.
§ 21. Degrees of the Staff. Eaeh line and each space of the staff is called a Degree; thus the staff contains nine degrees, counted upwards from the low est, there being five lines und four spaces.

§34. When tones lower than one are sung, onc is to be regarded, also, as eight, of a lower scale.

PRACTICAL EXERCISES.

And the dis-tant thun-der roar-ing, Bids us quick-ly seek the shore;
Yet we safe -ly reach the moor-ing, And our cares and fears are o'er.
§35. The human voice is naturally divided into four classes: low male voices, or Base, high male voices, or Tenor; low female voices, or Alto, high female voices, or Treble.
§ 36. The following example exhibits the ussual compass of the human voice, and also that of the different classes, as Base, Tenor, Alto, and Treble.

Note.-Besides the above, there are other distinctions, as Barytone, between the Base and Tenor, and Mezzo Soprano, between the alto and Treble. The Treble is often called Soprano.
§ 37. The F clef is used for Base, the G clef is used for Tenor, Alto, and Treble, but when used for Tenor it di notes \(G\) an octave lower than when used for Treble or Alto.
Nore.-This different use of the \(\mathbf{G}\) clef for Tenor, and for Alto or Treble, should be clearly illustrated and explained.

\section*{CHAPTER VIII.}
MELODICS—— NTERVALS.

Note.-A true knowledgc of intervals can only be communicated through the ear. Names, definitions, or illustrations, may be given while the pupil ohtains no correct idca of the thing itself, which can only be acquired by a careful listening to tones and comparison of them. The ear alone can appreciate or measure intervals. The subject is one which cannot be understood until the ear has been considerably rained; this is the reason why it has not been presented earlier in this course. After intervals have een taught, the following definitions will be easily undcrstood.
§ 33. The difference of pitch between any two tones is called an Interval. Thus, the difference of pitch between one and two is an interval.
§ 39. In the regular succession of the tones of the scale, there are two kinds of intervals, large and small.
§40. The large scale-intervals are called Steps; and the small scale.intervals are called Half-Steps.
§ 11. The intervals of the seale occur in the following order :-between one and two, a step; between two and three, a step; between three and four, a halfstep; between four and five, a step; between five and six, a step; between six and seven, a step ; and between seven and eight, a half-step.
Note.-The terms tone and half-tone are in common use to designate these intervals; but as the application of the same word both to sounds and intervals is inconvenient, the discontinuance of the term tone the series of tones called the scale, it is quite natural to carry out the figure, and borrow from the ladder the word strp by which to designate scale-intervals.

\section*{CHAPTER IX.}

\section*{THE MINORSCALE}
§ 42. In addition to the scale already explained, there is another scale, differing from that in the relation or succession of its tones, or in the order of its intervals, called the Minor Scale; it is the soft scale of the Germans.
Note - The scale which has already been explained, based on \(C\), or of which \(C\) is one, may now be called the Major Scale

8 43. The natural Minor Scale is based upon \(A\), or upon six of the Major Scale
Note.-The term natural is used here to indicate that the tones of which the scale is composed are the same as thosc belonging to the scale already explained.

\section*{CHAPTER X}

THE CHROMATICSCALE
§44. Intermediate Tones. Between those tones of the scale which form the interval of a step, an intermediate tone may be introduced : thus, intermediate tones may occur between one and two, two and three, four and five, five and six, and six and seven; but not between three and four, and seven and eight, because the intervals between these tones are already half-steps, and these are the smallest practieable intervals known in the musieal system.
§45. Names of Intermediate Tones The intermediate tones are named from the seale-tones between which they occur, but with the addition of the word Sharp or Flat prefixed or suffixed, to distinguish the name of the former from those of the latter. Thus, the intermediate tone between one and two, or be. tween C and D , may be named from either of these; if named from one, the word sharp is prefixed, and it is called Sharp-one; if named from two, the word flat is prefixed, and it is called Flat-xwo; again, if named from C , the word sharp is suffixed, and it is called C-sharp; or if named from D, the word flat is suffixed, and it is called D-Flat. The same principle is applied to the naming of all the other intermediate tones.
Note.-The word sharp is used as a name for a tone, and signifies higher; thas, by sharp-one is meant a tone which is higher than one, yet not so high as two; again, the word flat. when used as the name of § 46. Representation of Intermediate Tones. An intermediate tone is repre. sented by a note on the same degree of the staff as is the scale-tone from which it is named; thus, the tone named sharp-one is represented on the same degree of the staff as is the tone named one, but with a charaeter prefixed to the same degree of the staff, called a \(\operatorname{Sharp}(#)\). So also, the tone named flat-two is represented by a note on the same degree of the staff as is the tone named two, but with a character prefixed to the same degree of the staff, called a Flat (b)
Note.-It will be observed that the words sharp and flat are used both as names of tones, and as names f characters, signs, or marks of notation.
§ 47. Chromatic Scale. A scale consisting of thirteen tones, ineluding the eight scale-tones, and the five intermediate tones, having twelve intervals of a half-step eaeh, is called the Chromatic Scale.
§ 48. Diatonic Scale. The scale which was first described is called the Diatonic Scale. The minor scale is also diatonic.

\section*{EXAMPLE}

NOTE - The letter i should always receive the sound of in the above syllabes; thus Dis nounced Dee, \(R i\) is pronounced Ree, etc. Again, the letter e should always receive the sound of the English long a, so that \(S e\) is pronounced \(S a \bar{a}, L e\) is pronounced La , etc.
§ 49. The characters called sharps and flats continue their significance throughout the measure in which they occur, and also from measure to measure when the same tone is to ho repeated, or until canceled by a note written upoll some other degroe ur the staff.
Nots. - The trencher should be careful to cause his pupils to understand that \(\mathrm{C} \ddagger\) is not C raised or elevated. and that \(D_{y} 1 s\) not \(D\) lowercd or depressed, but that the tone \(C \neq\) or \(D_{y}\) (by whichever name it may be called) is an independent tone, being in pitch butween Cand D. It is not possible to elevate or to depress the pitch of a tone. Absolute pitch is, of ouvrse, unalterable. The error here ponted out is of this work, and various other books. It is equally untrue, to say that a sharp raises or elevates, or Lowers or depresses a note.
§ 50. Sharps and flats are canceled, or their significance is terminated by a sign called a Natural ( \(t\) ).
Norr.-Practical exercises are omitted under this head, since it is generally preferable that an ability to sing chromatic passages should be acquired in connection with tunes, or melodies, in which they are found.

\section*{DIATONICINTERVALS.}
§51. In addition to the scale-intervals, or to the intervals belonging to the scale in its regular progression, called steps and half-steps, there are also other intervals occasioned by a departure from the regular scale order, or by skipping: as Thirds, Fourths, Fifths, Sixths, Sevenths, and Octaves, and there may be Major and Minor, i. e., larger or smaller.
$52. Intervals are always reckoned from the lower tone upwards, unless othcrwise expressed.
Notz.-Tables, or descriptions of these intervals are omitted, as well as exercises in them, since they are better learned by a concrete than by an abstract practice.

\section*{CHAPTER XII.}

§53. In addition to the natural form of the Minor Scale, as already explained, there are also others, which, being altered from the natural, may be called artificial forms.
854. The first in the present order, is that which differs from the natural form by the introduction of the tone sharp seven, and which is often called the Harmonic Minor Scale.

§55. The second is that which differs from the natural form in ascending, by the introduction of sharp six and sharp seven, but in descending, returns to the natural form ; it is often called the Melodic Minor Scale.

\section*{EXAMPLE.}

Nore.-Composers and theoretic writers present still other forms of the Minor scale, but which jt can be of no practical importance to explain.
\(\oint 56\). The natural minor scale commences with \(A\), or \(A\) is taken as its pitch, or as one; and as \(A\) is six in the major scale of \(C\), it follows, that the minor scale is based upon six of the major scale.
Note.- The pupil should be reminded that the word natural, as here used, has reference only to the Nate. - The pupil should be reminded that the word natural,
§ 5 \%. The minor scale based upon six of the major scale, is called its relative minor ; and the major scale, based upon three of the minor scale, is called its relative major.
Note-Practical exercises are omitted here, but will be found in connection with the transposition of the scale.

\section*{CHAPTER XIII.}

\section*{TRANSPOSITION OF TIIE SCALE.}
§ 58. When the scale is based on \(C\), it is said to be in its natural position, or natural ; but the pitch of the scale may be changed, and, when any other pitch than \(\mathbf{C}\) is taken as one of the scale, it is said to be transposed.

\section*{CHAPTER XVI.}

\section*{APPOGGIATURA-TURN-SHAKE OR TRILL-PORTAMENTO.}
§ 72. Passing Tones. Tones not essentially belonging to a melody are often introduced into music, called Passing Tones. They are sometimes represented by notes of smaller size than those in which the music is written, though this distinction is not generally observed.
§ 73. Apoggiatura. When a passing tone precedes an essential tone on an accented part of a measure, it is called an Appogiatura.
§ 74. After Tone. When a passing tone follows an essential tone, on an unaccented part of a measure, it is called an After Tone.
§ 75. The Shake or Trill. A rapid alternation of a tone with the conjoint tone above it, at an interval of either a step or a half-step, is called a Shake or Trill.
§ 76. The Turn. A tone sung in rapid succession with the conjoint tones above and below it, so as to produce a winding or turning melodic motion or movement, is called a Turn.
§ 7\%. Portamento. When the voice is instantaneously conducted by a concrete passage, or graceful and almost imperceptible glide, from one tone to another, so as to produce a momentary previous recognition or anticipation of the coming tone, such a carriage or transition of the voice, or such a blending or melting of one tone into another, is called Portamento.

Note 1.-The portamento should only occur betwecn tones of comparatively long duration, and in connection with words or tones expressive of deep emotion. This beautiful grace, which, when properly introduced, gives an inexpressible charm to singing, is sometimes, nay often, most sadly misrepresentecl, caricatured, or counterreited, and coarse slides, or vocal avalanches are heard in its place. Ferrari, in his "Singing Method," has applied the very significant term "harsh shrieks" to these frightful lurchings of the voice; but, by whatever name they may be called, they should be most watchfully and deterninately eschewed.
Note 2 -The ornaments, graces, or embellishments of vocal music, some of which have been merely glanced at in this chapter, with the partial exception of passing tones, cannot be said to belong to ordinary sinping, and certainly not to choir or chorus-singing. The turn, the shake, and the portamento. iblity of voice, accuracy of ear, quickness of musical perception, and habits of persevering application nor should they he attempted, even by these, until they have been carefully studied for years under the direction of an accomplished teacher.

\section*{DEGREES OF POWER.}
§ 7. Mezzo. A musical sound of medium power or force is called Mezzo, (pronounced met-zo;) such a sound is indicated by the term mezzo, or by an abbreviation of it, as mez., or by its initial, \(m\).
§ 79. Piano. A tonc somewhat softer than mezzo, or a soft tone, is called Plano, (pec-äh-no,) and is indicated by the term piano, pia., or \(p\).
§80. Forte. A tone somewhat louder than mezzo, or a loud tone, is called Forte, (for-te, or four-te,) and is indicated by the term forte, for., or \(f\).
§ 81. Pianissimo. A tone softer than piano is called Piannissimo, (pee-äh-niss-i-mo, and is indicated by \(p p\).
§ 82. Fortissimo. A tonc louder than forte is called Fortissimo, (fore-tiss-imo,) and is indicated by \(f f\).
Nots-There are also modifications of the above-named degrees of power, as Mezzo-Forte, Mezzo Piano.

\section*{CHAPTER XVIII.}

\section*{FORM OF TONES.}
§ 83. Organ Form. A tone commenced, continued, and ended with an equal degree of power, is called an Organ Form, or an Organ Tone. It may be indicated by parallel lines, thus :
Note 1.-The Organ Form takes its name from the organ pipe, which can only produee a tone of one equal degree of power.
eque 2.-The Organ Form is not often used in vocal music, except in passages in which one part holds a steady tone for a considerable time, while the other parts sing various harmonies.
§ 81. Crescendo Form. A tone commencing piano, and gradually increasing to forte, is called Crescendo, (cre-schén-do.) It. is indicated by cres., or by two divergent lines, thus: \(\qquad\)
§ S5้. Diminuendo Form. A tone commencing forte, and gradually diminishing to piano, is called Decrescendo or Diminuendo, (dé-cre-schen-do, or dim-in-oo-en-do.) It is intimated by decres., dim., or by two convergent lines, thus:

S6. Swell. A union of the crescendo and the decrescendo produces the Swell Form: indicated by the union of the divergent and convergent lines, thus: \(\sim=\).

Note 1.-The swell is sometimes called the Drawn Tune ; the term Miessa di voce, 18 also used to de signate this tone form.
Note
Nore 2 - The acquisition of this form of tone is one of tha most difficult things in the art of song. It constitutes the polish or finishing touch in artistic excellence. "It is the result," says Garcia, in his admirable "'s"
Note 3.-The application of Crescendo, and Diminuendo to phrases and sections, or to passages or several measures, is comparatively easy, and constitutes one of the greatest beauties of ehoir singing.
§87. Pressure Form. A very sudden crescendo or swell, is called the Pressure Forn. It is thus marked, \(<\) or \(<>\).
Note. - This dynamic form is sometimes used to express ridicule, sarcasm, or irony. It beiongs mostly to burlesque, to the ludicrous, or to the comic in singing.
§88. Sforzando. A tone which is produced very suddenly and forcibly, and instantly diminished, is called an Explosive Tone, or Sforzando, or ForzanDo, (sfört-zán do, or fört-zán-do.) It is designated thus \(>\), or by \(s f\), or \(f z\).
Note 1.-This tone-form is of great importance both to the speaker and to the singer. The energetic style of singing, as in many of Handel's choruses. for example, is much dependent upon it ; indeed some degree of it is always needed in the very first utterance of the voice, for wihout it the tone will be destidegree of it is always needed in the very first utterance or the voice, for without it the tone will be destitute of life and expression. Its power is distinctly felt in the manner in which good performers on stringed or wind instruments prodice their tones, or in the very first utterance of a tone, or in the manner in which the attack is made upon it. Mucli of the dullncss, heaviness, stupidity, and lifelessness so prevalent in vocal music, and especially in choir-singing, is to be attributed to the absence of this dynamic form of delivery. It is by no means intended that every tone should be given Sforzando, far indeed from this, but the element or directed by good taste, it will be likely to degenerate into a mere lungeing or jerking of the voice, grunt like, coarse, and disagreeable.
Nore 2.-The mark indicating the pressure form of tone is often printed instead of that which indieates the Forzando. The observance of the mark as thus erroneously applied would, in many cases. be quite ludicrous. The mark is often applied in this form, \(\wedge\).

\section*{CHAPTER XIX.}

EMISSION OF TONE, PURITY OF TONE, WORDS, ETC.
Nore.-1f there is anything of elementary importance in teaching singing-classes, it is that of voca utterance, or the emission of the voice. This should engage the most careful attention of the teache from the very first attempts of the pupil to produce musical sounds. A good delivery of the voice, and also purity of tone, slould be sought for in the very first lessons, and they should be kept constantly in view during the whole course of instruction.
§89. Emission of Tone. Vocal utterance, or the emission of tonc, should be instantaneous, decided, and firm ; without drawling, hesitancy, unsteadiness and the like. The tone should be produced by a very distinct morement or motion of the glottis, which, being shut, is suddenly opened for the emission of the sound, as by a "vigorous shock." This motion, or "shock of the glottis," has been compared to the action of the lips energetically pronouncing the letter p , or to the action in the vault of the palate in articulating the hard c , as come, or \(k\), as in kind. The tone thus produced strikes the ear at the precise point of time, as by percussion. Like a spark from a living coal, it has life and power, and makes itself felt. Garcia, in his singing-school, says, "I recommend the shock of the glottis as the only means of obtaining sounds purely and without bunghing ;" and again he says, " the master must insist on the tones being attained by the shock of the glottis."
NOTE 1.-Any one who gives attention to the production of tones by a good instrumentalist, or to the manner in which they strike the ear when the attack is made upon them, or when they are first brought forth by a skilful player, cannot fail to observe their great superiority in promptness and energy of deliv. in a performance of choral music with The contrast between the delivery of instrumental and vocal tones tones will be given with decision, pith, and character the voice will very great; while the instrumental and lifeless. Indeed, choir or chorus-singing can hardly be heard witliout revealing the fact heavy, dull, ever proficiency may have been made in reading music, so far as it relates to time and tune, the proper use of the vocal organs in the enunclation or emission of tone has been sadly neglected.
NoTE 2.-Caution. In the attempt to acquire the true delivery of the voice may go too far, and substitute a shock of the lunet or of delivery of the voice, there is danger that one of the glottis merely. This may result in a violent of the chest, or of the whole vocal region fir one remark, "he sings by main force." It hardly need be said that this extreme should be avoided. There is a proper medium for the utterance of tones, between a careless, indolent, drawling manner on the one hand, and a terrible vocal eruption on the other.
NoTE 3.-Let it not be supposed that an accurate idea of the production of vocal tones can be communicated by any attempt at description; the true idea can only be imparted by illustration or by living by pattern, or by examo cannot himself produce a tone in a proper manner, can teach a pupil to do so, for is not himself a virtuous or the work nuust be done. As it is of little use for a man to preach religion who definitions or descriptions, does not aso give good vecal and § 90. Purity of Tone. A tone is pure when it is full, round, sonorous, and resonant, and when no extraneous sound is mixed with it ; it is impure when it is stifled or muflled, when it is guttural or nasal, or when it partakes of an as. pirated, husky, or hissing quality.
Nore.- "The purest tone is obtained, frrst, by fattening the whole length of the tongue ; second, by partially raising the veil of the palate ; third, by separating the pillars at their base."-GARCIA. inging; but it cannot be expected that one who delivers the veice (tones) in a carefully spoken in feless manner, should articulate or pronounce words ivers the voice (tones) in a careless, indifferent, itterance or emission of tones has been formeu, it is almost sure that there will be a correspareful ention to words. A proper production of tones is a pre-requisite to a good enunciation of words.
§ 91. Vowel or Tonic Elements. It is upon the tonic sounds (vowels), onl at the voice should dwell in singing. They should be formed with accuracy, ad carefully prolonged, without change. To insure this, the same position of e vocal organs should be preserved during the whole continuance of a tone, change or motion of the throat, mouth, or tongue, nor indeed of the head or dy, should be permitted.
lore. -It is a very common fault for singers to pass from the tonic element, and to allow the voice to dwell upon a subordinate sound; as the vanish of a compound tonic element, or some succeeding or final consonant sound admitting of prolongation, Thus. for example, the word arm, is often erroneously sung \(\mathrm{i} \ldots-\mathrm{r}-\mathrm{m}\), or ir----ln, instead of a \(-\ldots-\mathrm{rm}\); the word is sung fear-----, or fe--ar---, instead of fe----ar. It would be easy to multiply examples, but these must suffice.
§ 92. The most important vocal element to the singer is that which is heard in the word ah, as in arm, harm, charge, calm, etc., and which is represented by the letter a with two dots over it, thus, ä. This is the richest, most open, broad, and euphonious sound that can be found in any language, or that can be produced by the human voice. It is also the most natural sound, for, while all other sounds require some preparation or modification of the vocal or gans, this is produced by merely dropping the under jaw, so as to open the mouth in the most easy and natural way. It is of great importance that the pupil should acquire the true sound of this element, since it prepares the way for all the others.
Nore.- This is not the place to attempt a full description of the elements of the language; a teachcr of vocal music must be supposed to be familiar with these. It may be well, tonic elemcnt heard in the word Do (Doo), will be found very useful, especially for softening and smat the to ing the voice.
§ 93. Consonants. These should be delivered quickly, smartly, distinctly, and with the greatest precision. Yet, since they do not sing, they should be given with no more force than is necessary clearly to identify the word spoken. The neglect of a careful utterance of the consonants, is a principal cause of indistinctness in the articulation of words.
89. Accent, Emphasis, and Pause. The laws to which accent, emphasis, and pause are subject in reading, should also be observed, generally, in singing; but if poetry is to receive a musical expression, it must be, to some extent, subjected to the laws of music ; yet the laws of music musi not be permitted to conflict with those of elocution, but such a liberal interpretation of both must be allowed as will enable the singer most happily and effectively to unite the two-speech and song.
§ 95. Finally, in all vocal performances close attention should be given to both words and music. The singer should grasp the spirit of both, and make them his own; he should make an entire surrender of himself to his work, throw in his whole soul into the performance, and piotuce a living song, which shall draw out his own heart, and the hearts of those who hear; so shall he produce the effect for which music is designed, and for which it is so admirahly adapted.
