“The Man that Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo.”

Written and Composed by FRED. GILBERT.

Sung by CHARLES COBORN.

I've just got here, through Paris, from the sunny southern shore ;
I to Monte Carlo went, just to raise my winter's rent ;
Dame Fortune smiled upon me as she'd never done before,
And I've now such lots of money, I'm a gent—
Yes, I've now such lots of money, I'm a gent.

CHORUS.

As I walk along the Bois Boolong,
With an independent air,
You can hear the girls declare
“He must be a millionaire ;”
You can hear them sigh,
And wish to die,
You can see them wink the other eye
At the man who broke the Bank at Monte Carlo.

2.

I stay indoors till after lunch, and then my daily walk
To the great Triumphal Arch is one grand triumphal march.
Observed by each observer with the keenness of a hawk,
I'm a mass of money, linen, silk, and starch—
I'm a mass of money, linen, silk, and starch.

CHORUS.—As I walk along, &c.

3.

I patronized the tables at the Monte Carlo hell
Till they hadn't got a sou for a Christian or a Jew ;
So I quickly went to Paris for the charms of mad'moiselle,
Who's the loadstone of my heart—what can I do,
When with twenty tongues she swears that she'll be true ?

CHORUS.—As I walk along, &c.
