Mr. Webbe.

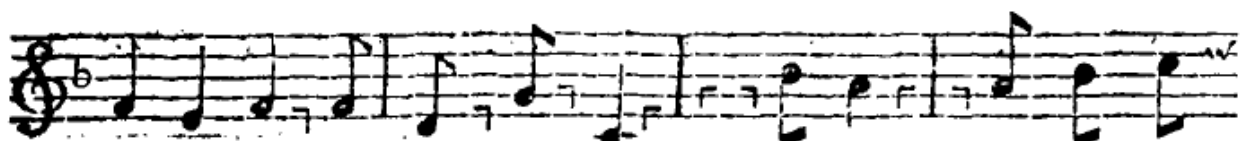

The moon and woman, the moon and woman in these points agree, in these points agree, The moon and woman, the moon and woman in these points, in these points a-gree, Pale, red, big, big, small by turns, by night they fray, by night, by night they fray; They both give horns, and both will change we see, They both give horns, they both give horns, and both will change we see; The moon but once a month, but woman ev'-ry day, The moon but once a month, but woman ev'-ry day.

Mr. Webbe.

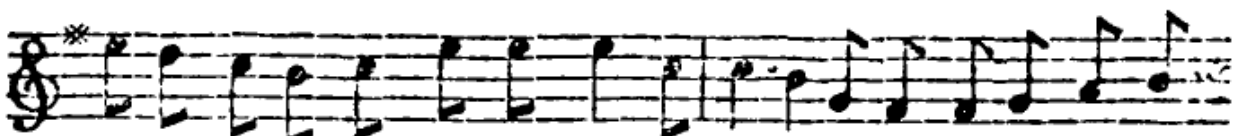

I love to be merry and wise, To drink and cajole with a friend;

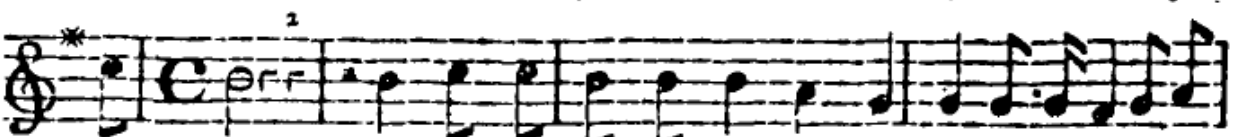

I love to assist in a song, And mirth with my troubles to blend: To sing with the merry, to grieve with the sad, To tofs off a bumper to make my heart glad, To tofs off a bumper to make my heart glad. Mirth with my troubles to blend, I love to assist in a song, And mirth with my troubles to blend, And mirth with my troubles to blend, I love to as-sist in a song, I love to assist in a song, to af-fist in a song, to af-fist in a song, I love to be merry, to be merry and wise, I love to be merry, to be merry, To drink and cajole with a friend; I love to be merry, to be merry and wise, To drink and ca-ajole with a friend, and ca-jole with a friend, with a friend, To drink, To drink and ca-jole with a friend, To drink and ca-jole with a friend.

Mr. Webbe.

Tell me ye pow'rs, ye pow'rs, what can surpafs, An honest friend;

a chearful glafs, what can surpafs, An honest friend, a chearful glafs, what can sur-pafs, An ho-nest friend, a chearful glafs;

Tell me ye pow'rs, ye pow'rs, what can sur-pafs; Tell me, tell me ye pow'rs, what can surpafs, An honest friend, a chearful glafs, what can sur-pafs, An honest friend, a chearful, chearful glafs, a chearful glafs; Tell me ye pow'rs, what can sur-pafs, Tell me ye pow'rs, what can surpafs, what can surpafs, An honest friend, An honest friend, a chearful glafs, a chearful glafs.
